FOREWORD

In the following pages of this, the 1966 edition of the SHALERESQUE, the highlights and achievements of our year at Shaler have been recorded. Through the use of picture and word, we have turned academic, athletic, and social events into memories: memories which will be a part of us always no matter where we go or what we do in the future.

Although each year in high school is memorable, the senior year, at the end of which we graduate and face the future, will be fondly recollected in years to come.

Share with us now our year, as, with pride and joy of accomplishment, we, the Class of '66 present our SHALERESQUE.

Fall Brings Hustle and Bustle Of Activities To Everyone At Shaler

"Kick two!" screams an exhausted band at Mr. Mroz.

"Oh, my aching back! Will I ever make it through this pre-season training? Hey, look! Looks like Mr. Mroz is giving the band a good workout too. Man, oh man! Is it hot! I sure wish school weren't starting yet."

Huskie students put in a lot of preparation for the beginning of the school term. In addition to athletics, cheerleading, and band practice, there are walls to be scrubbed, windows to be washed, schedules to be made, and books to be catalogued. Everybody is getting ready for school.

The janitors and maintenance men have much repair work to do before school opens.

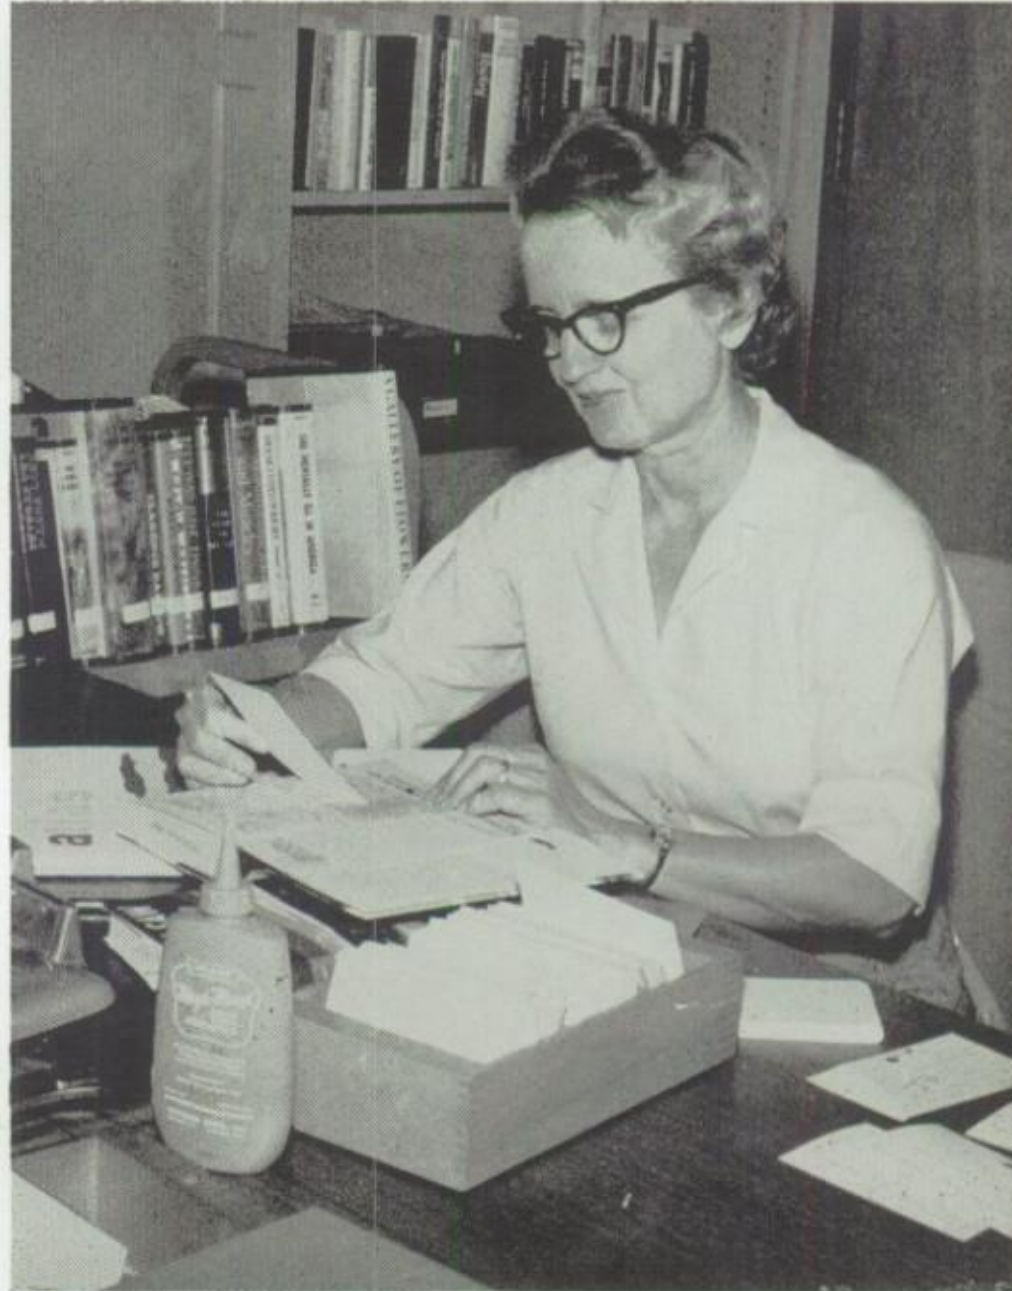

The football team practices vigorously in the hope of a successful season. These grueling practices get the team in top condition fast.

Mr. Shepley, tirelessly, works out the schedules of all the students after he consults the master schedule which tells what classes are taught each period.

Mrs. Baker catalogues many new books for the opening of school so that when students return in September the library is ready for use.

nicest, friendliest
girls I know

"68"

"Gosh darn it! That bus is late again. I'll never get to school early enough to comb out my ears and tail, get my excuse signed, and clean my locker. Oh, here it comes. Oh well, back to the old grind."

There are a million different things to be taken care of each morning. Students are on the go right up until the last minute, when the 8:30 bell signals the start of the day.

Guidance counselor's offices are always jammed with students waiting to get their excuses signed before school.

The senior boys sit in the lobby before school and watch all the girls go by. Fun, boys?

Dave Martin and Kevin Martin perform their daily patriotic duty.

Activities Vary As A Shaler Day Begins

Mr. Ford, Mr. Chalfant, and Mr. Bold catch up on the daily news before school begins.

Messy, jammed lockers are only one of the complications of life before school.

Before school the girls room is a sight of mass confusion.

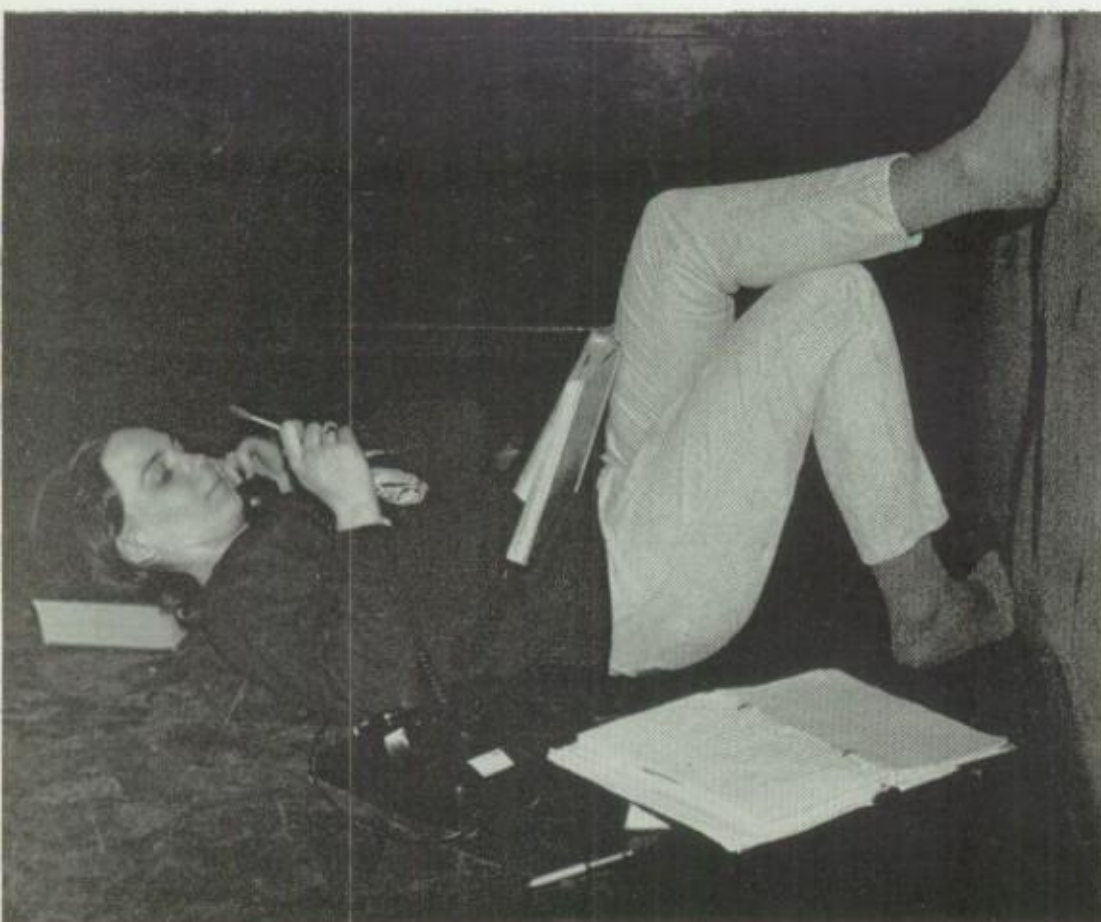

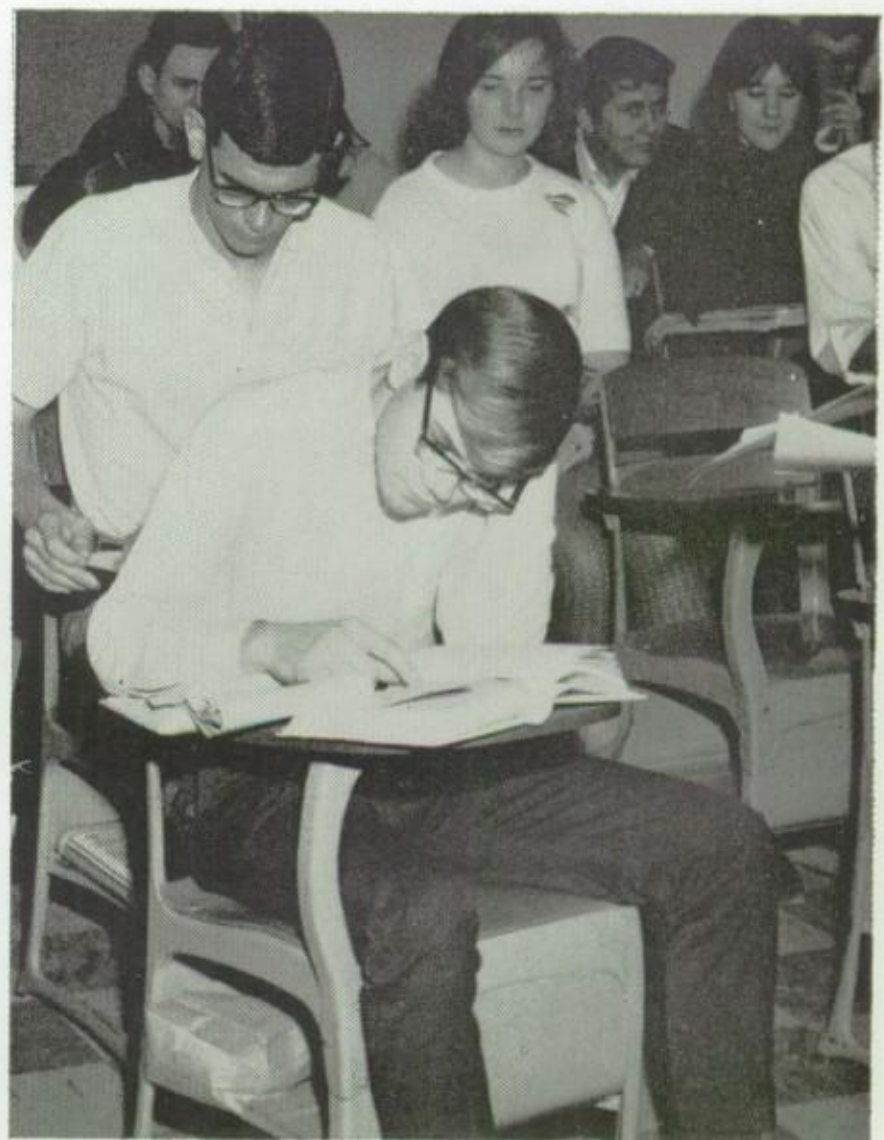

Nancy Madsen double checks on some information before a big test.

At home Joanne Zotter and Leslie Seeger divide their time between studying for a test and eating.

Many students take that last minute look before a test. Does it really help, Doug?

Elaine Spalick calls a friend about a difficult problem.

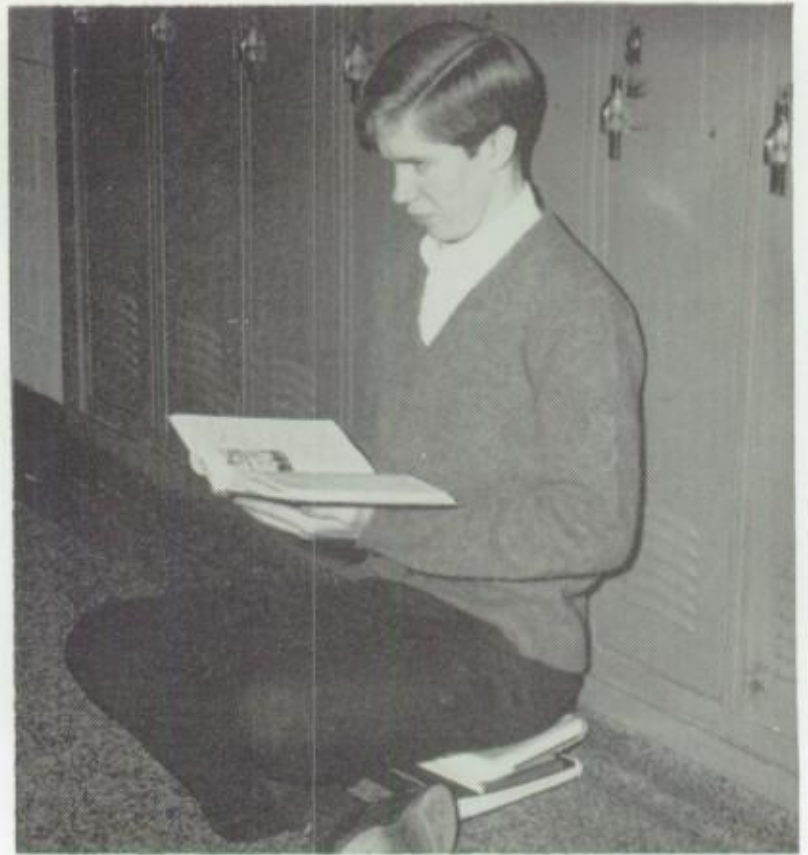

Shaler Students Study

"Let's see how tricky I can make this test," remarks Mrs. Samuels.

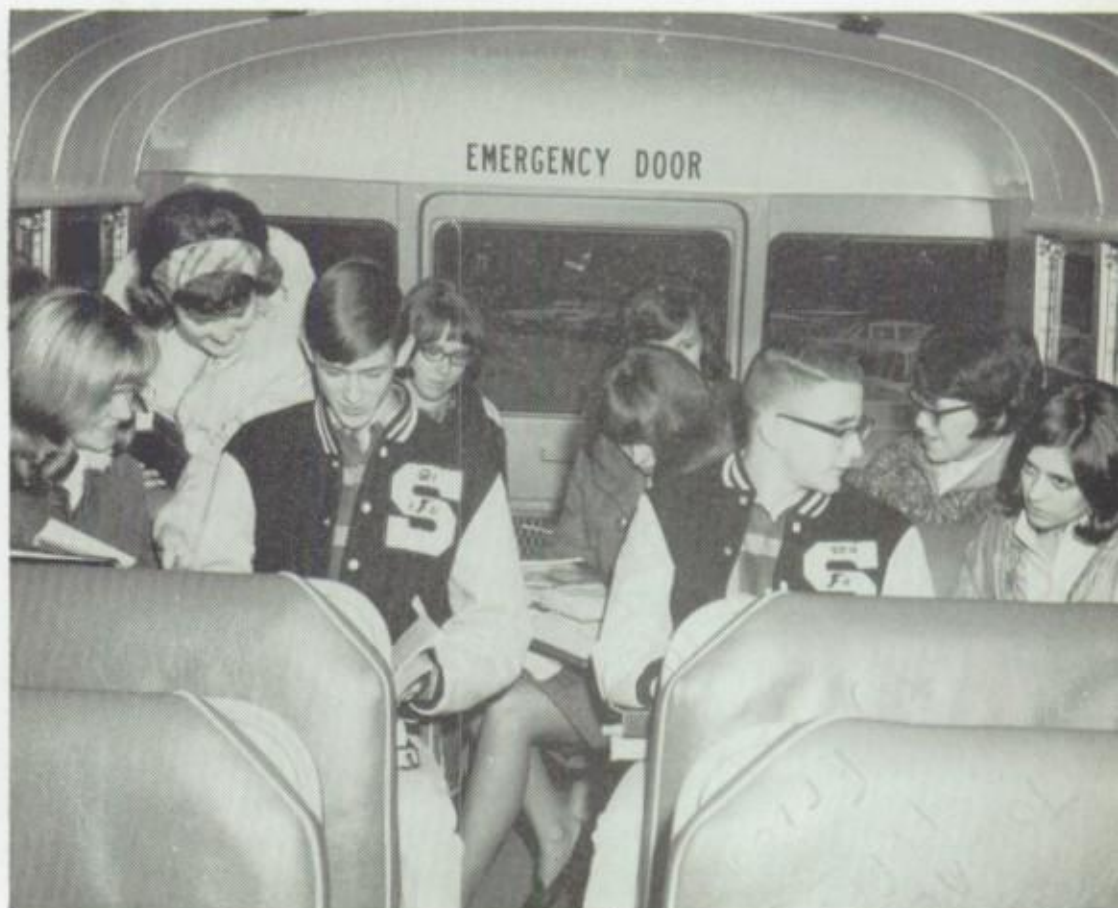

Even Brent catches up on some last minute cramming.

"Quiet!" pleads Joanne Zotter, "I'll fail my test if I don't study now."

In Strange Ways and Places

Shalerites Eat On The Run As They Wait For New Cafeteria

"Oops! There goes my apple rolling under the trampoline again! I can't wait until the new cafeteria is finished. These */! :*/- box lunches are starting to taste flat. I'll never complain about cafeteria food again."

Our Huskie is as disconcerted as we are about having to eat in the gym while the new cafeteria is being constructed. Administration, faculty, and students eagerly await the completion of this project and the opportunity to purchase hot lunches.

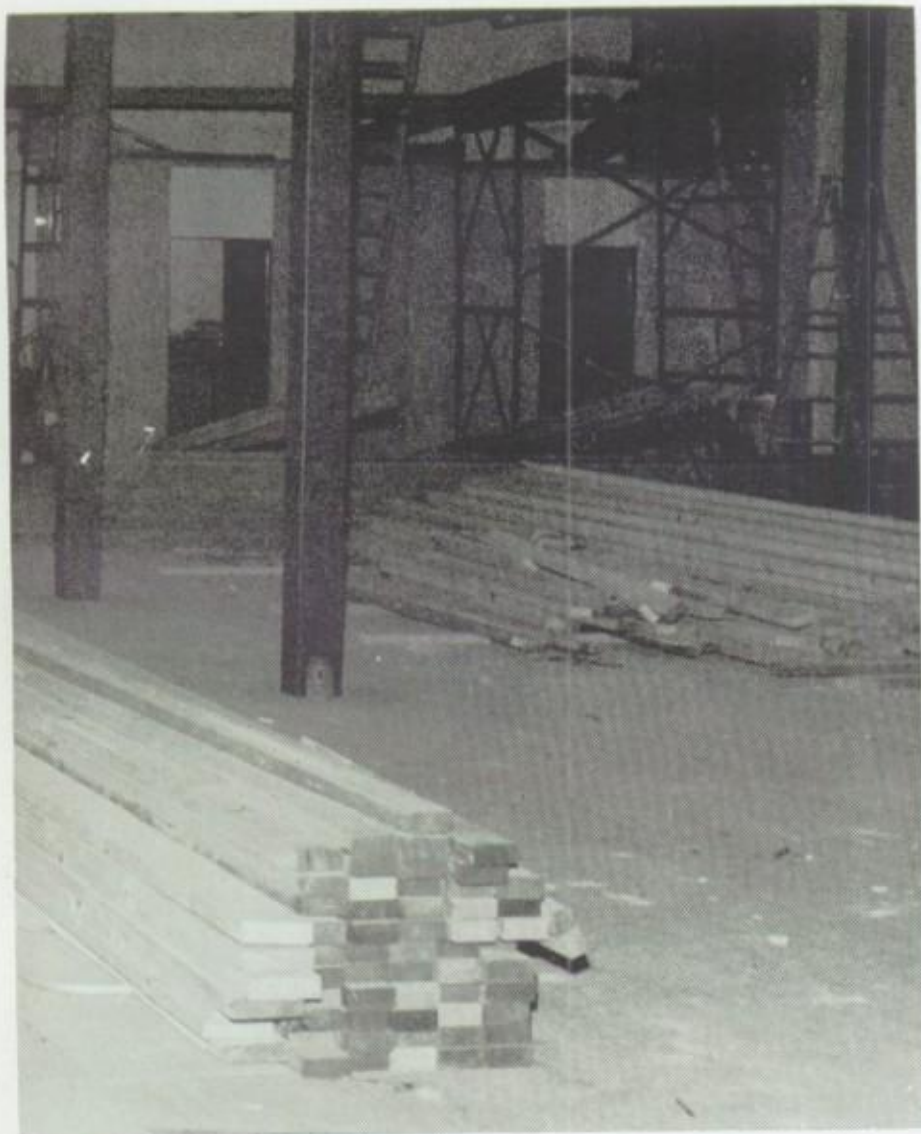

Good weather provides a cheery atmosphere for Shaler's picnic lunches.

"Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches again!" moans John Harkins.

The small auditorium is reconstructed into the new cafeteria. Much work and many months later we did have the two level cafeteria.

"Mr. Condeluci better have the right change," mutters Mrs. Domyslawski.

"Rah! Rah! Rah! Oh look! Here comes the team. They really look confident. Oh, there's Doug. Doug! Come on, sit over here. Hey, check out the team. They're really hot tonight. We'll win for sure!"

Shaler students are as enthusiastic as our Huskie dog. School spirit runs high at every athletic event as the students arrive to cheer our team on to victory.

"You better win tonight or else . . ." screams Mr. Martin to his boys.

The band begins to march before half-time activities.

In order to prepare for the game, the cheerleaders tack an encouraging sign on the corridor wall.

With true Huskie spirit, the team arrives on the floor for the game.

A Game Brings Excitement, Preparation, and Work For Everyone

Mr. Kapphian sells tickets at the door before a big game.

The cheerleaders prepare skits for the pep assemblies to arouse school spirit.

Seniors Actively Prepare For June's Great Events

Carol Sauter measures Carol Zak for her graduation cap.

"Now don't worry. You won't trip down the steps in your new shoes. I sure hope it doesn't rain. I hope Mr. Shepley remembers to call my name. Gosh, I'm nervous! Oh, just think, after four long, struggling years we're finally getting out."

Like the two Huskies, we seniors are very nervous about our graduation. Before the big night, there are thousands of loose ends to be tied together. Before commencement we bid a fond farewell to our Alma Mater.

The boy's gym classes practice keeping in step before commencement.

Several senior girls work diligently to make the decorations for their prom a success.

DATES TO REMEMBER:

Senior Prom — June 3

Baccalaureate — June 5

Commencement — June 8

Senior girls do lots of practicing in their heels before the big night. Don't worry; no one has fallen yet.

Rich Sobehart and Carlos Reisen fill book room for summer storage. All books are stacked, counted, and repaired before school opens again in September.

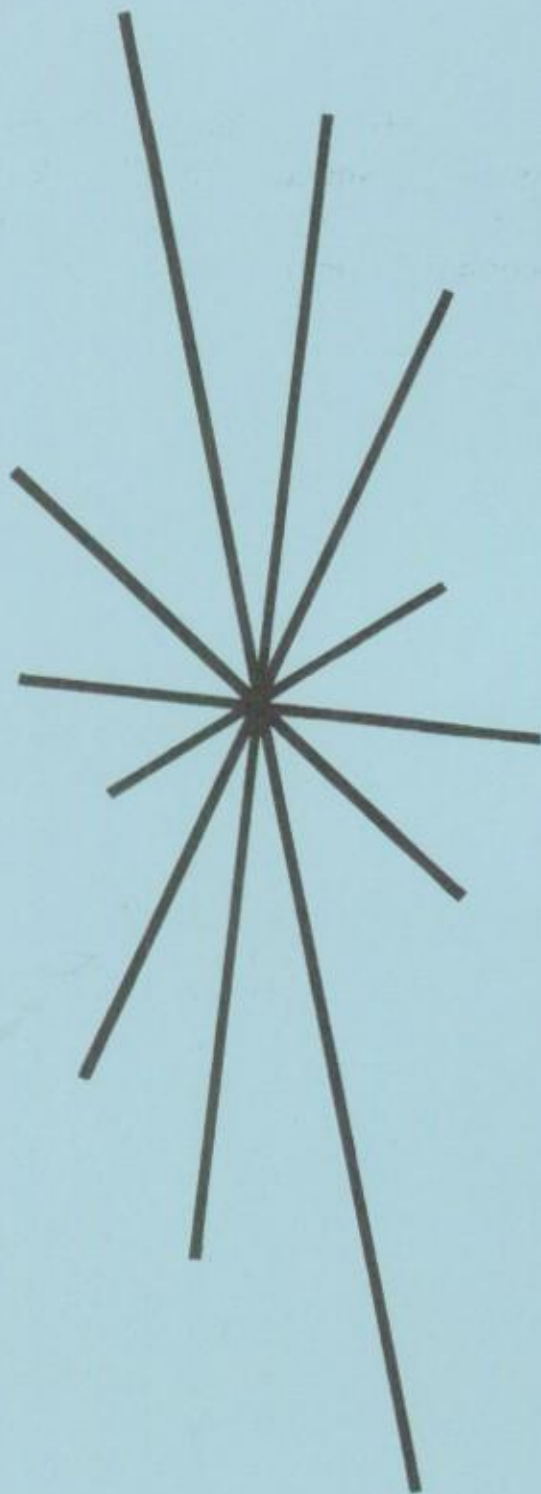

Combining pleasure with work, the Advanced Biology class goes hunting leaf samples.

SHALER's student body is almost equally divided among the three classes; of the total thirteen hundred students this year, the sophomores had a slight edge with four hundred forty-two members in their class to the four hundred twenty-five students enrolled in each of the junior and senior classes.

Sophomores, in their first year at the high school, found the year one of new experiences and acquaintances. In an effort to establish a class treasury, all class members participated in a magazine drive. After three weeks, class members reported a profit of five hundred dollars, thus getting the class of 1968 off to a good start.

Two of the biggest events in a junior's year at Shaler are the class play and the prom. This year's production was The Mouse That Roared and was presented late in March. Earlier in the school year, on Thanksgiving Eve, the juniors sponsored the Junior-Senior Prom at Royal Ridge Field Club, which was elaborately decorated on the theme of "Rhapsody in Blue."

As the seniors looked forward to graduation, they enjoyed their participation in the traditional events of the school year. The class swung early into the activities involved in producing Slice It Thin, the senior play, and in preparing for the Senior Prom and Commencement. Also, seniors provided the leadership necessary in directing the clubs, teams, and activities.

Each class plays its own role in the class structure at Shaler, building on the skills acquired earlier, and making a unified program for the high school.

Shaler High, although divided into individual classes for some activities like class plays, works together as a single unit in supporting school wide functions with enthusiasm.

Bob Crocker stands at attention at the start of a half time performance.

Seniors enjoyed performing in the class play "Slice It Thin."

Leading the 1966 Senior Class in all its activities and managing its finances were the Senior Class officers. In addition, homeroom representatives chosen by the sponsor, Mr. Baum, made up the Senior Executive Committee which planned graduation and the Senior Prom. Business in homerooms was managed by the homeroom presidents, providing leadership on all levels.

This year's Senior Class President was Lou Kudrav.

The class of '66 left Shaler High School taking many happy memories and leaving behind an impressive class history. In our Freshman year the class was split between the junior and senior high. Our Freshman Homecoming float depicted the state of Vermont and was in semifinal competition. "Alice In Wonderland," our Sophomore Homecoming entry, was our contribution to the Homecoming theme, "Fairy Tales." "The Days of Wine and Roses" was chosen as the theme for the Junior-Senior Prom. Royal Ridge Country Club was the scene of the Prom where Joanne Hrach was crowned as queen. Georgeanne Palese, who rode as queen of the Senior Class float depicting Columbus Day, placed as one of the four finalists. "Slice It Thin," a situation comedy, was presented as our Senior Class Play. "Shangri-la" was chosen as the theme for the Senior Prom held at Churchill Valley Country Club in early June.

Variety Is Keynote Of Year For Juniors — Class Of '67

The class of 1967 was led by their officers Jim Bashaw, President; Craig Christman, Vice-President; Jane Szymanski, Secretary; and Rick Kushon, Treasurer. The Juniors started the school year well with their St. Patrick's Day float as one of the four finalists in the Homecoming parade. The Junior Class Queen was Myra Groh and her attendants were Mimi Miller and Shirley Woodruff. The highlight of the Junior year was the Junior-Senior Prom. "Rhapsody in Blue" was the theme. At the peak of the evening, Jane Szymanski was crowned Junior-Senior Prom Queen. In March the Junior Class Play, The Mouse That Roared, was presented. Paul Palmer and Sharon Kapphan were selected for the lead roles by Mrs. Samuels, the play director. All in all, the year for the Class of 1967 was successful and, of course, busy.

The officers responsible for planning activities for the class of 1967 are: Jane Szymanski, Secretary; Rick Kushon, Vice-President; Jim Bashaw, President; and Craig Christman, Treasurer.

To Entire School Sophomores Show Talent

Shaler's Class of '68 contributed highly to this year's high school curriculum. Many sophomore boys participated in various sports, and several are likely Varsity candidates for next year. Showing an avid interest in school activities, the sophomores were active members of many school clubs. Several sophomores performed in our annual talent show. The sophomore class proved to have many willing salesmen and earned five hundred dollars in the annual sophomore magazine drive.

Leading the sophomore class through this very successful year were the class officers — Jim Huitt, president; Dale Russell, vice president, Holly Chandler, secretary; and Eileen Bulger, treasurer.

AT Shaler, the academic side of life is geared to the needs of the entire student body since studies are divided into three courses which are designed to meet the expressed occupational interests of each student.

The college preparatory course includes all subjects generally listed as entrance requirements by colleges and universities across the country. It is important that the student formulates his intentions regarding a career of major field of study as early as possible in order that he may schedule the proper electives from the wide offerings which are now available, especially in science, foreign languages, and math.

The business education course provides, not only a general education, but specialization training that should enable a graduate to do creditable work in various office jobs without additional formal educational training. While it is true that some graduates will further develop their skills by attending secretarial schools, many will begin immediately after graduation to pursue occupations that make good use of their high school training.

Shaler's general course, instituted for pupils who have not chosen a particular field for specialization, permits a fairly wide selection of electives while requiring those subjects deemed essential for good citizenship. Students who are late in deciding upon one of the other courses of study may cover almost all the same fields by following the general course and by selectively choosing electives.

With constant evaluation, Shaler's curriculum is kept geared to her students' needs.

oe Yagesh works to get his jewelry project done.

Because of the wide variety of academic interests of Shaler students a broad program must be offered which is, like the interests, constantly changed to keep it compatible and meaningful.

The home-ec department used their talents to prepare a Christmas buffet.

School Board Works to Continue The Development Of Shaler

"Continued Growth" could be the theme of the Shaler Township Board of Education's program for the school year 1965-66. Facilities which were opened during this school year included a new elementary school located on Burchfield Road in addition to the new cafeteria and four new classrooms and conference rooms at the Senior High School. These new facilities which were installed have kept the School Board slightly ahead of our expanding pupil population. Long-range plans for the Shaler Schools have been started, and it is expected that before mid-summer the final blueprint covering building needs for at least a ten-year period will be established and preliminary planning of these buildings started.

A new problem faced the School Board during the current school year when in the summer of 1965 the Governor signed into law a transportation bill which made the local school officials responsible for the transportation of the non-public school children living in Shaler Township. Plans were developed with officials of twelve such schools and were put into operation in early September. The Shaler Schools are now transporting approximately 2,000 students to the twelve non-public schools in the township.

The School Board works through committees; there are six standing committees, and each member of the Board is chairman of one while serving on two others as members. Meetings of committees, in addition to the monthly Board meetings, require many hours of each member's time each month. Shaler is to be commended for the devotion her School Board members display in the cause of better education.

Three hard working, conscientious men left the School Board during this school year. Mr. Pfischner moved from the township, while Mr. Rea and Mr. Ruff, due to their own business obligations, decided to leave the Board activities to the newly-elected Board members, Mr. Beebe, Mr. Georgalas, and Mr. Stark. The three outgoing Board members, all of whom have served as president in the past, have spent many years working in behalf of better schools for the children of the community. It is expected that the newly-elected members will give the same devoted service to the cause of education in Shaler Township. Under the leadership of their new president, Mrs. Paul Phelan, the School Board hopes to accomplish the many things they have planned for the coming year and to initiate long-term projects.

Discussion of proposed new school sites took place frequently.

Mr. Boyer, Assistant Supervising Principal, is in charge of secondary education.

A job of the Assistant Supervising Principal was to interview prospective professional employees.

Joan McElheny, secretary, takes dictation from Mr. Hench.

Dr. Campbell, Assistant Supervising Principal, is in charge of elementary education.

Mr. Hench, Supervising Principal of Shaler Township Schools.

Mrs. Phelan and Mr. Hueston work out budget details.

Mr. Boyer converses with Dr. Campbell in an informal interview.

Mr. Harold Hench, Supervising Principal of Shaler Schools, is the school board's chief executive officer. It is the responsibility of the Supervising Principal to put into action what the school board passes.

The biggest business matters of the year were the building plans, the education program, the employment of personnel, and the development of new programs. The building program included wide expansion of classrooms and facilities on both the elementary and secondary levels. The Junior High building was expanded, and plans were developed for replacing the old elementary schools. In the development of new programs, the "6-2-2-2" plan for expansion was adopted.

This plan includes a six year elementary education, two years junior high education, two years intermediate education, and two years high school education. The school board hopes to have this plan in effect within four years.

A matter of great concern which the board faced this year was the proposed merger involving Shaler schools. Township residents strongly indicated their opposition to the merger. Mr. Hench and the administration, in upholding the wishes of the people, fought against the merger. Shaler was granted independent status in October, 1965, by the Pennsylvania State Board of Education.

Administration Plans For The School

This year the administration has had the extra task of organizing the cafeteria and the new classrooms. The old cafeteria was remodeled and the old auditorium converted into a new second floor cafeteria with an elevator connecting the two levels. Much organization and planning was involved in this project, and the administration was kept busy the whole year in an effort to keep all schedules running smoothly. The student body was extremely cooperative throughout this project and their cooperation was greatly appreciated by the entire administration. Many changes were made in the administration itself this year involving the office secretaries, teachers, and the Assistant Principal.

Mr. William Meyers, the assistant principal of Shaler Senior High School, left on March 11, 1966, to become the principal of Elizabeth-Forward Junior High School, opening in September, 1966. Replacing Mr. Meyers is Mr. Joseph T. Sanderson, formerly the assistant principal of Shaler Junior High School.

Mr. John A. Shepley, Principal of Shaler High School for six years, is constantly at work to create a better school for Shaler students.

Lou Kudrav and Tim Dreier confer with Mr. Dixon about plans for Senior Day.

English Department Hosts Two

Curriculum in the English department this year included academic, commercial, and general English, and stressed literature and the fundamentals of English grammar. Advanced literature, speech, and composition offered additional experience in a specific field for those who wished a second English course. As in past years, the journalism class produced the Scoop. Two Penn State seniors did their student teaching this year in the English department. Miss Avis Nicholson gained teaching experience in Mrs. Skerlong's twelfth grade classes, instructing the classes in units on short stories, sonnets, and Macbeth. Miss Marion Lutz worked with Mrs. Corda's twelfth grade classes and taught structural grammar, Hamlet, and Return of the Native. Both of these associate teachers also worked with activities: Miss Nicholson with Scoop and Miss Lutz with Shakespeare.

A smile for Miss Lutz's first period class.

Bill Baker brings up an amusing point in his report.

Shaler's Social Studies Department did new things to make the course easier and more meaningful for the students. The course has been designed to make the pupils more aware of the political, social, and economic problems of the world from early history to modern society of today. Mr. Fenton had his geography class do special reports. The reports could be made from books, interviews, maps, or models of something. One project was a model of an oil well made of toothpicks. Another student made a three dimensional topography map. Mr. Fenton said that the projects gave the students a chance to use their imaginations and skills. The students in Mr. Ely's P.O.D. classes interviewed county and township officials. Mr. Ely said this was more practical and interesting than the book.

P.O.D. Students and Mr. Wyeth Attend Weekly Lectures At Chatham

Mr. Wyeth was one of thirty selected teachers who has attended lectures at Chatham College. He chose five senior students to go to these discussions too. The series of lectures were on the Soviet Union. Some of the topics were on the political system, the economics, the legal system and the Communist theory. Mr. Wyeth said this has been an unusual opportunity to learn from the nation's experts about a strategic culture and civilization somewhat different from our own. He also signed his classes in the Hundred Thousand Pennsylvanians. Through this the class learned of the advantages of living here.

Mr. Longwell's psychology classes tried something different this year while studying personalities. Each of the classes was divided into committees for the purpose of making an original personality test. The test was to show whether the students had a tendency to be extroverted or introverted. Students were to be as creative as possible not only making up questions but also analyzing the answers. One of the questions was concerned about the common interest a student has with all of his close friends. Mr. Longwell said the tests made the study very interesting; therefore, he plans to continue it next year.

Business Department Moves To New Locale On Second Floor

This year the Commercial Department was moved to another floor. This change was to allow for more space. Four new electric typewriters were added for a better selection. This gave the commercial students a chance to better their ability and speed. An interesting shorthand class was conducted by the student teacher, Miss Hornbeck. She taught new ideas to be used in future job interviews and in planning a future education in business schools.

The Commercial Department is divided into three fields — bookkeeping, clerical, and secretarial. This variety enables a student to specialize in the field in which he is most interested. When a commercial student graduates from Shaler, he is well prepared to enter almost any field with an adequate background. A periodical check is made of graduates to enable the department to follow the changing business world.

Shaler Provides Thorough Business Preparation

Boys and girls who wish to enter a field of business can obtain a full curriculum in Shaler's Commercial Department. This department contains many different subjects — consumer economics, office practice, business law, and transcription are some of these. In consumer education students learn the art of buying and selling. Office practice introduces many types of office machines and procedures.

New business world practices are taught in business law class. Transcription shows the transcribing of shorthand notes on the typewriter.

Janis Rudolph, Celeste Verano, and June Sinicki test their skills on the office machines.

Janis Rudolph, Collette Barricella, Linda Conwell, and Rose Acri practice on their machines for a timed test at the end of each week.

Varied Classes Introduce Students To Scientific Principles

Shaler's 1966 science curriculum included sophomore biology, advanced biology, chemistry, physics, and senior science. Students who enrolled in the sophomore biology course studied the basic principles of plant and animal life. Weekly lab periods made possible detailed observations. Chemistry students learned of the importance of scientific investigation and experimentation. The ability to use scientific language — vocabulary, formulas, and symbols — was stressed. Seniors elected senior science, advanced biology, or physics. Students studied all of the practical applications of the basic scientific principles of chemistry and physics in senior science. Advanced biology students, through lectures, class participation, and laboratory work, studied the basic principles of animal life, concentrating particularly on human life. This year's physics course attempted to acquaint students with the physical knowledge necessary to understand fully their natural environment.

Two new phases of biology and chemistry were added to the science department's curriculum this year. Two sophomore biology classes studied the Green Version, a new approach to biology in which the emphasis was placed on laboratory work. This year Mr. Speer taught a new type of course called Chem Study.

Two Pitt Biology Interns Work With Shaler Students

This year's Biology students found themselves adjusting with two different teachers. Mr. Jerome Keller, the first of the teachers from Pitt, emphasized lecture to his students. Mr. Keller taught the first semester here at Shaler. The lecture discussion method, on the other hand, was practiced by Mr. Jack Gruenburg, the second semester teacher. With the use of this method, students were encouraged to actively participate in discussion. Both of these biology teachers were a part of the Intern Teaching Program. They were not student teachers but regular accredited teachers. Working for their Master of Arts in Teaching degree, the two men strove to attain one-half of their credits in their subject field.

Undergoes Transition From Traditional To Accelerated Program

When asked what was new in the Math Department, Mr. Mills, head of it, said "a lot." Shaler is in the process of changing from the traditional to accelerated math program. The traditional math started in ninth grade with algebra I, plane geometry in tenth, algebra II in eleventh, and trigonometry with a solid geometry course in twelfth.

Accelerated mathematics begins with algebra I in eighth grade, algebra II in ninth, plane and solid geometry in tenth, a review of algebra II and trigonometry in eleventh, and an introduction to calculus and college math in twelfth. This transition took place this year with all students taking plane and solid geometry in tenth grade. This year's juniors will probably take trigonometry and analytical geometry as seniors. Shaler's math program was accelerated in order to maintain the pace with our fast-moving society of tomorrow.

"What should we use," says the puzzled Algebra II class, "Hero's formula, quadratic equation, or the Pythagorean Theorem?"

Some challenging problems in advanced math are tackled by seniors. "Finally," says Jim Miller as he finishes his problem using the Trigonometric functions and tables, but Jim Georgalas still struggles to finish his.

Language Department Celebrates Traditional Foreign Holidays

Getting acquainted with the customs of other lands could well have been the theme of the work of this year's language clubs. At the annual French Club Christmas party, the main customs of France were discussed, and traditional foods for that season were sampled, and the beautiful French carols were played and sung by members.

A "pinata party" introduced the main customs of Mexican children to the Spanish Club. Spanish Club members produced beautiful pinatas in various shapes. Much fun was had by the blind-folded student attempting to break the pinata and by the students scrambling for the scattered bits of candy. Ten other pinatas were sent to Children's Hospital.

In Mrs. Barr's and Mrs. Timney's gym classes the girls were directed in other activities such as archery, shuffleboard, and volley ball. The glands, organs, body systems, and mental illness were some of the main chapters taught by Mrs. Barr in senior health. Mr. Brautigam and Mr. Martin also stressed physical fitness. One class was used as an experimental class on more strenuous exercises. Along with this, the boys participated in the main seasonal sports.

Band and Choir Perform Together For The Annual

The select voices of the Sophomore, Treble, and Chapel Choirs made up the music department of Shaler in 1966. Under the direction of Miss Margaret Pringle, the combined choirs had approximately 130 members. The choirs met five days a week for one period a day. In addition to preparing concert music, Miss Pringle began a new study of music. In past years choirs devoted all of their time to rehearsing for concerts, but Miss Pringle began a limited study of theory. Students learned basic music intervals, key signatures, pitch, and tone quality. Although it was only a small amount, the classes in theory gave choir members an overall background in music.

The choirs worked with several types of music throughout the year. Arrangements covered all periods of time and ranged from sacred Bach chorales to Broadway show tunes. The department ended a successful year with a banquet in the late spring.

Commercial Art Now In Shaler's Art Curriculum

Kathy Tegzes and Joanne Zotter work diligently on oil paintings in advanced painting class.

This year's art curriculum enabled students to choose the course which suited their interests. General art was designed to give students a chance to experiment in all phases of art. Jewelry and crafts and ceramics were aimed at the students who enjoy working with their hands. More advanced artists were able to express themselves in the painting and design course. Added to the 1966 curriculum was the commercial art course. This course gave the students who were interested in exploring the commercial art field a chance to gain further experience in this area. Art work in the second annual edition of Shaler Writes, the literary magazine comprised solely of student writings, was done by Miss Robinson's classes. Miss Robinson coordinated all the sketches and the cover design with the writings included in the magazine.

Students learned varied skills by electing courses through the industrial arts program. Wood shop students worked on projects of their own choosing including gun cabinets, toboggans, and picnic tables. Boys learned basic freehand sketching techniques and their application in mechanical drawing. They also learned to read blueprints and use principles of draftsmen. Metal shop students become acquainted with tools and processes used in metal work, and then went on to more specialized fields. Driver education students had actual driving experience while learning about the workings of a car in morning classes.

This year the Home Economics department introduced one semester courses of sewing and of cooking. There was a good response to the cooking classes where complete meal preparation was stressed. The girls in the Home Ec classes studied interior decoration for nine weeks and completed this study by going on a field trip to a furniture store. Another one of the classes studied home nursing under the direction of the school nurse. The Advanced Sewing class had to complete eight projects to fulfill their requirements.

The projects included making a small child's outfit, a Christmas gift, a man's garment, and a suit or coat. Many of the girls made baby clothes for their hope chests, Easter outfits for themselves, and sports jackets for their fathers. Some of the girls participated in a fashion show sponsored by Simplicity patterns which were shown to all the girls at Shaler. The Home Ec Department also participated in Shaler's annual Fine and Practical Arts Show, and many of the girls won cash awards for their work.

Library Acquires a New Audio-video Aid For Group Use

Mrs. Baker said that Shaler has on the average 9,800 books. Not including before and after school, there are 150 to 240 pupils who use the library every day during school hours.

Our library has revised and brought up to date the audio-vidio aids. There are 250 records which range in topics from how to use a telephone to masterpieces of music. There are eighty-one tapes for the language department. The 350 new files could be used in practically every class on any subject. There are even files on how to make a dress and how to decorate a home. The library purchased a record player and tape recorder on a rolling table which has eight ear phones connected to it. These have made learning easier.

Each member of the guidance department has a specific job. Mrs. Lukehart has charge of employment; Mr. Ribich and Mr. Auld add-time work would go to her and she would get them work. Mr. Ribich and Mr. Auld administer all tests that are given. Employment Service, College Achievement, and intelligence tests are some of the many that are offered. ## Student Teachers Gain Ten-Week Teaching Experience Here

As in previous years, Shaler High School hosted six student teachers this year. Miss Jean Melaney, a senior from Carnegie Tech, received her teaching experience in the art department with Miss Robinson acting as her cooperating teacher. After teaching five weeks at an elementary school and five weeks at our school, Miss Melaney returned to Carnegie Tech.

Penn State sent five student teachers to Shaler on January third. Two were trained in the English department: Miss Marian Lutz who worked with Mrs. Corda in English 12 and SHALERESQUE, and Miss Avis Nicholson who worked with Mrs. Skerlong's classes in English 12 and Scoop. In the math department Miss Christine Dahm took charge of Mr.

Ford's geometry classes. Handling Mrs. Wagner's commercial courses was Miss Virginia Hornbeck. Mr. Robert Cafazzo proved his teaching skills in Miss Smolkovich's classes. Besides working with a teacher, these student teachers were supervised by a center supervisor and area coordinator who coordinated activities in the Pittsburgh area. During the first week at the high school, our student teachers observed the classes and students. Several classes were picked up during the second week. By the end of their ten-week stay at Shaler, they were operating as full-time teachers. After leaving Shaler on the eleventh of March, Miss Lutz, Miss Nicholson, Miss Dahm, Miss Hornbeck, and Mr. Cafazzo returned to Penn State.

LIMITED space and facilities have never been a hindrance to Shaler's sports program. Even though Shaler does not offer swimming, tennis, or archery, a wide variety of sports keeps Shaler in constant competition.

Football and cross country were offered during the fall. Approximately sixty boys participated in football and battled their way through the tough competition of WPIAL's class AA. Another thirty boys led the cross country team through a season of jogging over the two and one-half mile course. In early December the basketball season began. The Varsity and Junior Varsity squads fought off the competition of Section 13 in their season of twenty-two games. Shaler's wrestlers, numbering in the fifties, grappled fifteen exciting matches and ended the season with two representatives in the District Tournament. The rifle team, composed of twenty-one members, was a leader in WPIAL competition. Golf, track, and baseball were the major spring sports and involved about one hundred thirty boys.

In addition to the interscholastic sports, Shaler also continued the intramural program. Weight lifting, wrestling, basketball, volleyball, and ping-pong were a few of the activities available on Saturday mornings to all interested boys. Girls also took advantage of a widespread intramural program through participation in after-school GAA two days each week.

Through a program designed to appeal to all students, Shaler's athletic program attempts to provide athletic experience commensurate with individual ability.

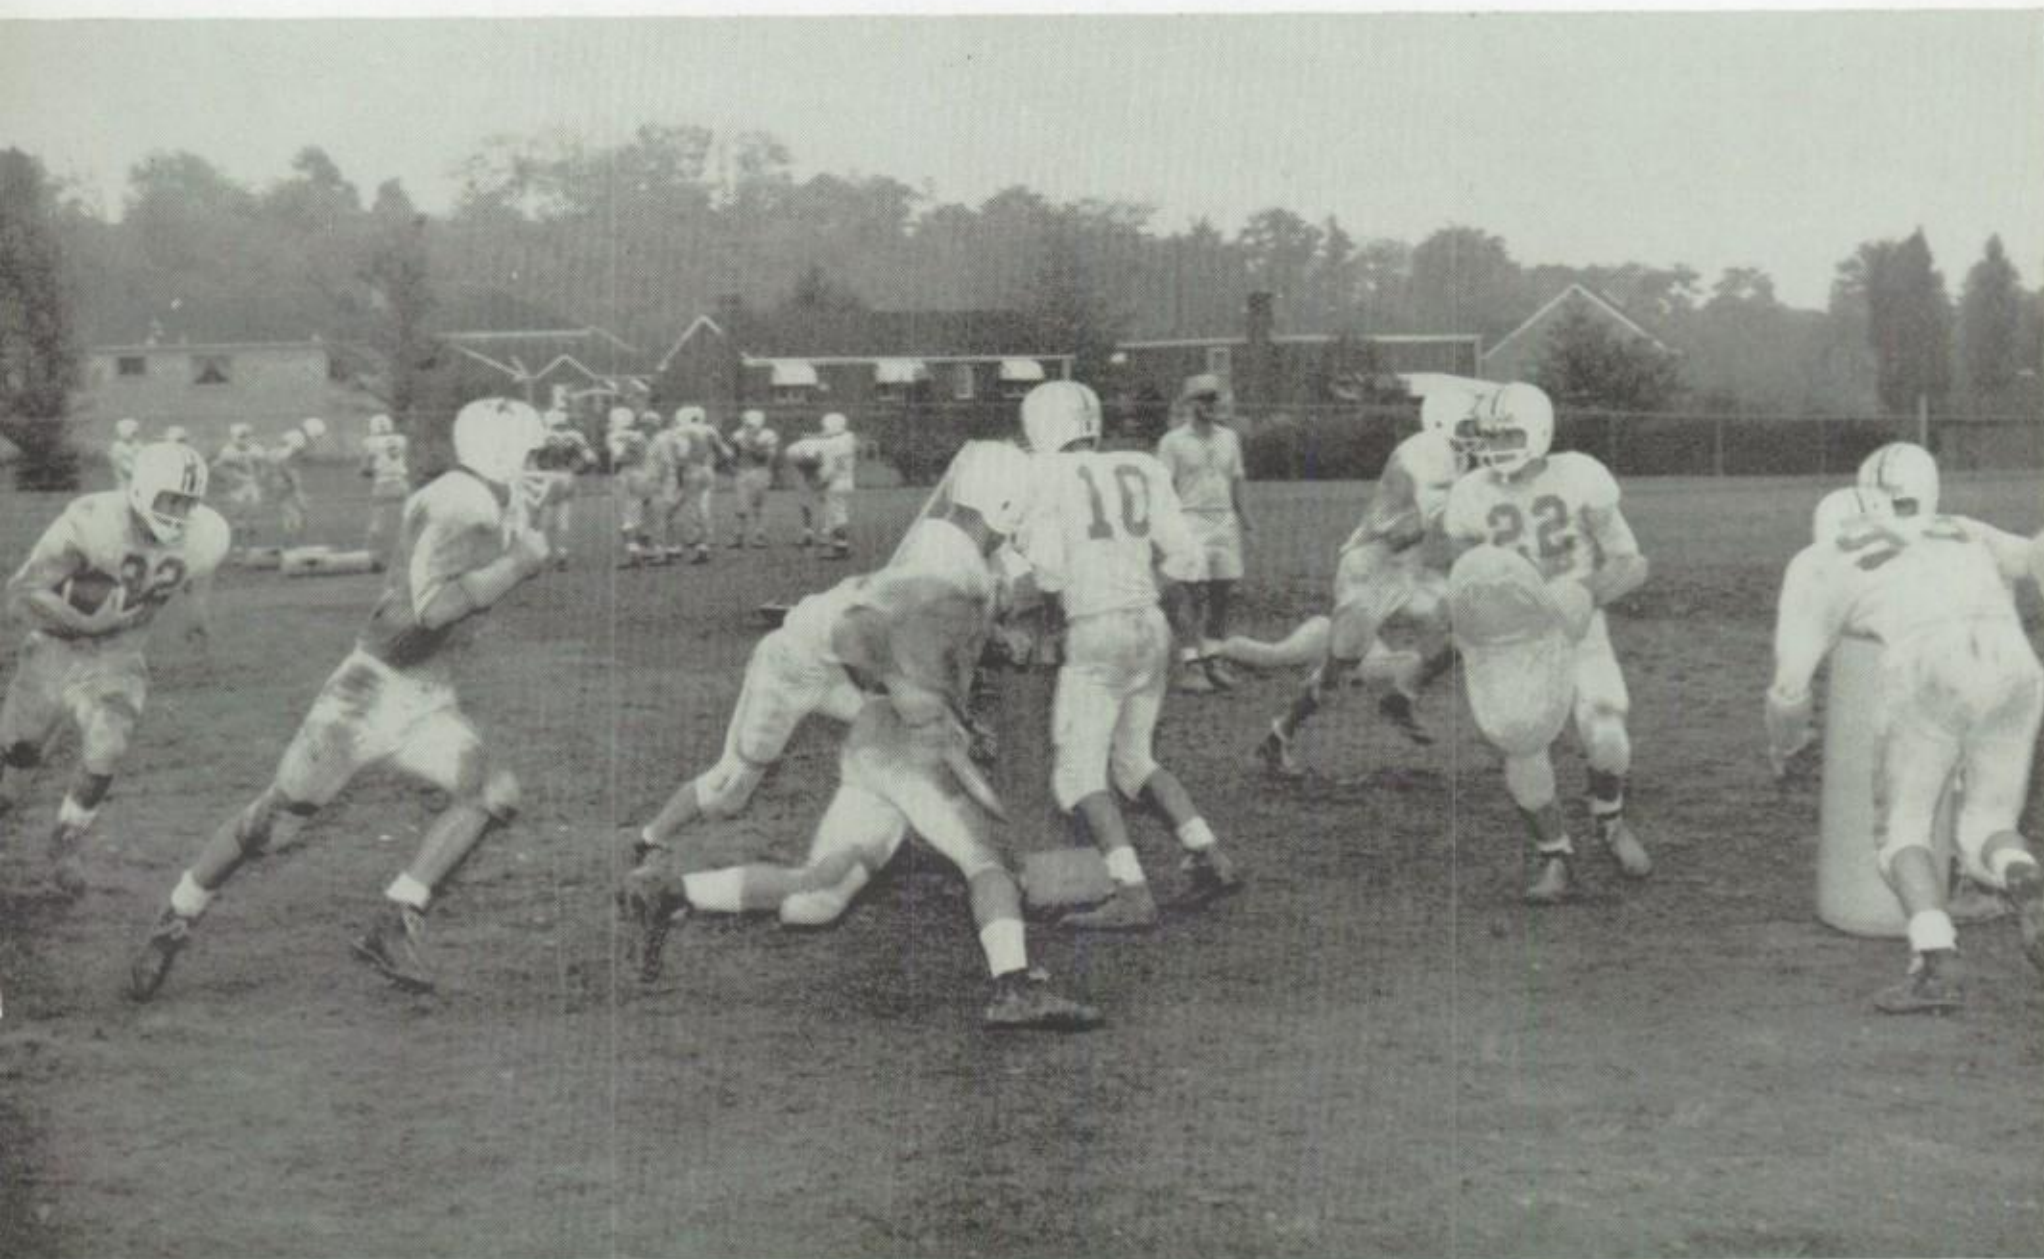

Students who are athletic are given an opportunity to use their skill in a wide variety of competitive sports ranging from football to rifle, from basketball to track, from bowling to golf.

1965 Huskies Kept Enthusiasm Throughout The Entire Season

Last year Coach Dixon commented, "If we are to overcome the loss of our twenty-four lettermen, the sophomores and juniors will have to put forth an extra effort next year." This fall the Huskies put forth that extra effort, but it did not seem to be enough. Even though the boys worked hard and with spirit at football camp, it was impossible to overcome their deficiency in size. Ironically, the year Shaler lacked experience our opponents seemed to have had more experience than ever. The results were rather disappointing. Because it is difficult to play on or to coach a losing team, we must give the Huskies great credit for never losing their enthusiasm during the long season.

Shaler Reaches Highpoint Of Season By Trouncing North Hills

Our first opponent, Beaver, was seeking revenge and defeated Shaler 34-0. The Huskies, however, went on to trounce Shady Side the next week 19-0. Possibly the hardest fought game of the season followed. But the Huskies got the short-end of the deal and Taylor Allderdice scored the victory. Our fourth bout was fought at North Allegheny and made the record three and one. The game at Seneca was confusing and bitterly contested. Shaler lost by one point. The players reached the apex of their season on Homecoming. They walloped a strong North Hills team and, moreover, beat a school which had not lost to Shaler for many years. The elation of Homecoming kept the Huskies up on top for another victory before losing our last game.

"Rationalization," said Coach Dixon at the awards assembly, "is the only way to see any good in a losing season. No matter how you look at it, it's the won and lost record that counts." Although this is true, two words can sum up Shaler's problem this year: size and experience. The Huskies were without both and, consequently, suffered for it. Throughout the entire losing season, though, the Huskies were able to keep high spirits, led by co-captains Bill Brown and Bob Lang. The season record was three wins against six defeats. With this year's experience, next year's Huskies should have a better season although they will miss many of the fine senior lettermen. The whole season was played as a team effort with many underclassmen gaining valuable experience.

This year's Varsity basketball team relied on teamwork, not on individuals. With no lettermen returning to the squad, the boys had to work hard to produce such a good season. Leading the team as high scorer was senior Bob Kinney, who was also chosen to be on the Section 13 All-Star Basketball Team. The other senior hoopsters included Bob Bradley, Fred Jenny, and Tom Craddock. These three boys were the playmakers for the team, and were the only seniors besides Kinney to receive Varsity letters at the Awards Assembly. The juniors receiving Varsity letters were Bill Lynch, Jack McRoberts, and Ron Domian. Mr. Martin termed these three juniors as the "nucleus of next year's team" and is counting on them to keep in shape for the 1966-67 year. Although the Junior Varsity had a losing season, two sophomore boys who were on the junior varsity squad will be prospects for next year's Varsity team. These two players are Paul Mahoney and Walter Wolfe. Mr. Martin prophesized that next year's Varsity basketball team should be as good as the 1966 team.

Bob Kinney Makes Section All-Stars

If anyone had told Ben Martin last year that he would have a winning 1966 basketball team, he would have thought they were joking. With a lack of height and no lettermen returning, the hoopster coach was prepared for the worst. Much to the surprise of many, the Shaler Huskies ended in a tie for second place in Section 13-A with a section record of eight wins and four losses. According to Mr. Martin, the formula for the success of this year's team was a full-court press plus a stressed defense mixed with a lot of hustling and a lot of working. At the final and most thrilling game of the season, the basketball team gave the school, especially the seniors, something they will always remember with pride. After remarkable performances by all of the players, the 1966 Shaler Hoopsters shamed North Hills by defeating the Indian "Squaws" by a score of 62 to 60 in three overtimes for a wild finish.

Shaler's wrestling team highlighted their season with Tim Ellenberger competing at Washington in the Regional Wrestling Tournament. The twins, Tim and Tom Ellenberger, took sections which places them among the top sixteen wrestlers in their individual weight classes in the state. Duff Case, also a senior, held a spectacular four year record of 45-3-1.

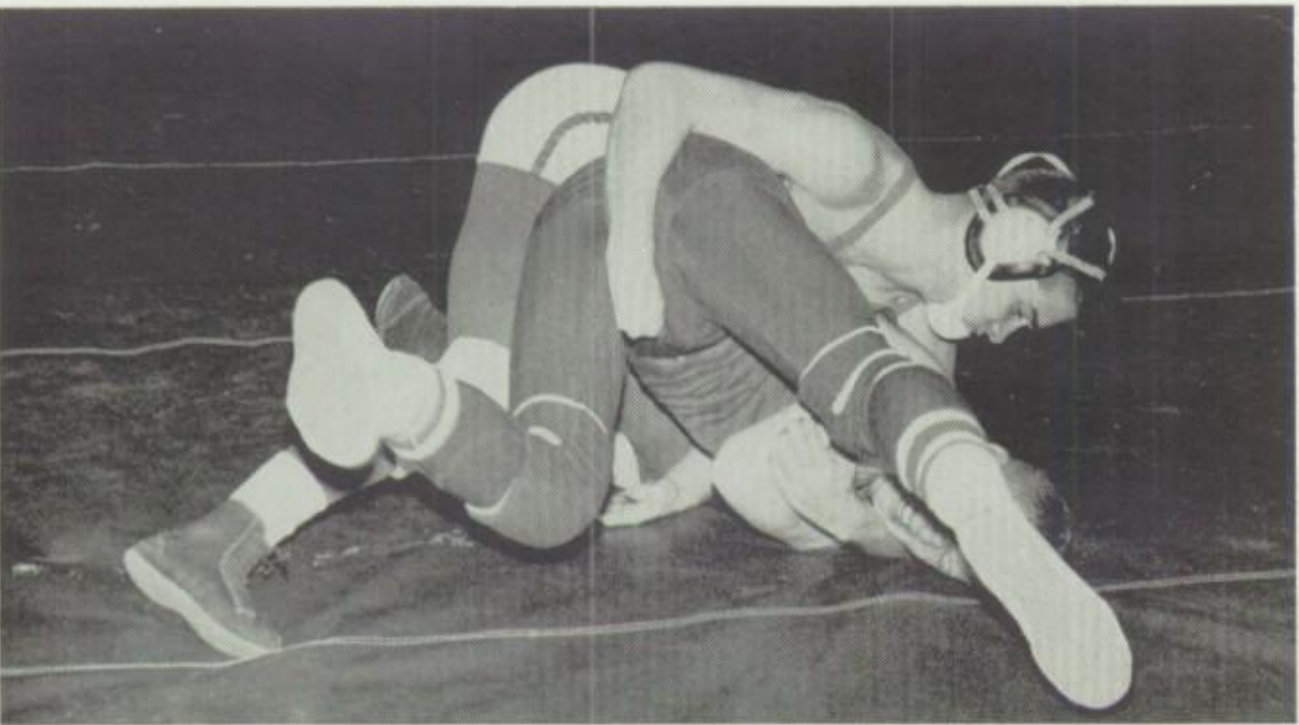

Although our wrestling team's record was 6-8, the coach, Mr. Robert Siar, felt the squad did a good job. In evaluating them he felt that the weakest spot was in the middle classes but he praised the heavier weights for doing such a good job considering their lack of experience. This season Mr. Siar stressed more leg wrestling and shooting for the pin.

Mr. Donald Matz's J.V. squad had a record of 6-7 which he felt was good considering the lack of experience sent from the junior high. In training he emphasized fewer calisthenics and more actual wrestling holds. With most of our wrestlers returning next year, hopes are high for a winning season.

Last year's track team finished the season with the tremendous record of 8-1-1 and in doing so set eight school records. Three of these were set by members of the 1966 senior class: Tim Dreier set a record in the 440 yard dash, Bill Brown set a record in the discus, and Dave Wilson and Tim Dreier set a school record in the half mile relay.

The 1966 team had eighty boys participating, including eight returning lettermen. These lettermen were: Tim Dreier, Dave Wilson, Bill Brown, Carlos Reisen, Ken Willman, Bob Bradley, Fred Jenny, and Gary Schaum. The team captain was Tim Dreier and co-captains were Dave Wilson, Bill Brown, and Ken Willman. Jim Ickes was the manager with Paul Kimpel, Sam Prywitoski, and Bernard Emala as his assistants. Mr. Longwell was the head coach with Mr. Bold and Mr. Brautigam as his assistants. Mr. Longwell coached the weight events; Mr. Bold, the running, and Mr. Brautigam, the jumping events.

The coaches led this year's team to another record breaking season. Records were set by Carlos Reisen in the low hurdles, and by the half mile relay team of Drier, Wilson, Smucker, and Reisen. Tim Drier broke his own record in the 440 yard dash with a time of 50.9 seconds. Shaler holds the West Penn Conference record in the half mile relay with a time of 1.32 seconds. Shaler placed fourth out of the thirteen schools participating in the conference.

After months of hard work, the rifle team became the Section 3 champions. Although the only recognition the team members received was a letter at the awards assembly, jackets, and invitations to the athletic banquet, the team practiced regularly every day. The coach, Mr. Fabian, helped the members with sitting, position and accuracy. The season began with the squad defeating Butler, their toughest rival. They ended their season undefeated with eight wins. Dennis Lutz, who had a perfect target, and Edie Carlson participated in the all-star match. During the year the team placed second in national competition.

The team was composed of twenty members, four being seniors. The majority of the squad was composed of girls who proved their rifle skills. Rifle team members promoted their own spirit by improvising signs and cheers to spur the team to victory at the matches since there are no spectators.

Mr. Fabian, the rifle team coach, says, "The WPIAL section is in the bag."

In the National Matches, Dennis Lutz placed 1st in boys' competition and Edie Carlson tied for 1st in girls'. The girls' team placed 1st in the nation competing against 45 teams, and the regular team placed 4th, competing against 65 teams.

At the close of last year's baseball season, one junior boy had earned a varsity letter and would return on the 1966 team. With only one letterman, Dave Martin, the team is made up of six seniors who fill in the major positions, and juniors who fill in where they are needed. The senior members of the team include Dave Martin, John Lambert, Rich Kumer, Lou Kudrav, Tom Craddock, and Gary Roman. The senior members of the squad will provide the backbone, and the juniors will gain valuable experience for next year. The team has high hopes for a winning season in 1966, and are trying hard to substitute work and determination where they are lacking experience. Coach Frank Ribich and assistant coach Sam Condelucci predict that the team will do very well against the competition of the WPIAL.

Mr. Ribich summed up the good qualities learned at practice by saying that "A good ball player should have good hands, speed, hitting ability, mental alertness, confidence, and most of all desire and ability to work as a team." Practice sessions began promptly after school each day with the team warming up. The warm-up consists of catching, pitching, hitting, and fielding practice, and over-all limbering up. After warm-up the team participated in a practice game until quitting time. Due to April showers, the team had a slow start with five games rained out but only one rescheduled. Our team won two games out of the first four played. Pitcher Tex Kumer pitched two 2 hitter games for an exciting opening season.

In GAA Girls Have Fun and Develop Skill

Sue Price and Roberta Shepley, the vice-presidents of Leaders' Club, are in charge of G.A.A. and had a big job this year scheduling the thirty-three teams that signed up to play. These teams played a "second-chance tournament" in which the loser in every game got a chance to become the winner of the losers and play the winner of the winners for the championship. Teams vied for the championship in basketball, volleyball, and shuffleboard. Ping pong, offered for the first time this year, was a tremendous success.

For the first time the G.A.A. teams sold linen calendars as a money-making project. Another first this year was the presentation of G.A.A. awards in the awards assembly before the entire school, rather than at the G.A.A. banquet. The G.A.A. in the spring then became a mother-daughter affair honoring the senior members of G.A.A.

As in the past, cheerleading practice was held two days a week during summer vacation. Both Junior Varsity and Varsity squads met and practiced songs, cheers, and chants. In the last two weeks of August both squads attended band camp, organizing pep rallies, practicing, and making signs.

Miss Nohach was again the faculty sponsor, and Jeff Edwards was the mascot. Nancy Fernald and Joanne Hrach were chosen co-captains of the Varsity squad; Mary Jo Geyer and Shirley Woodruff were co-heads of the Junior Varsity.

Pep Club began in March to prepare interested girls for the try-outs held in May.

Becoming a cheerleader is not the easiest thing to accomplish. A few practices, however, and candidates begin to realize that much hard work will be required. All prospective candidates must have at least a C average in all subjects. Weekly practices are held with each Varsity Cheerleader being assigned a group of 10 to 15 girls. At this time the basic fundamentals of cheerleading, such as a handspring, split, jump, and the cheer, "Huskie Clap," are taught. After several weeks of practice, eliminations are held. Each girl tries out by herself. She is judged by the Cheerleading Sponsor and the Varsity Cheerleaders. The girls each do three jumps, a split, a handspring, and the "Huskie Clap."

After surviving the preliminary elimination, the cheerleading candidate begins to work to achieve perfection. For final judging each girl must learn a group cheer, "Get Tough"; organize a skit; and make up an original cheer. After a month of practice, the girls have final try-outs. Again each girl tries out by herself. This time she is judged on appearance, poise, and skills. From the approximately one hundred girls who start, only twenty make the squad: ten on Junior Varsity and ten on Varsity. Even those who do not make the squad gain valuable experience for the next year.

Pep rallies are used every year to promote school spirit. Each one has a skit by the cheerleaders, and the band and majorettes perform. The object of pep rallies is to get the crowd and team enthused for the game that night. The cheerleaders try to accomplish this by cheers and songs. There were five rallies for the football season, and each winter sport got one. This year there was excellent spirit at most of the basketball games, which was helped by our fine team. Our spirit was heightened at the end of the season by the formation of the new pep club. At a special rally for the North Hills game, everyone wore blue and had shakers at the game. This aided our Huskies in defeating the Indians. Pep rallies have led both the student body and the teams to exciting seasons in every sport.

{XTRA-CURRICULAR activities play a vital roll in the lives of Shaler students. While some activities develop academic interests, others develop athletic abilities, or promote a variety of hobbies. The number and the type of clubs vary from school year to school year, depending on the interest displayed, since the school's activity philosophy attempts to fit the clubs to the students and not to mold the students to fit organized clubs.

Membership in all clubs is open to all students although members of the Leaders' Club, Varsity Club, and the honorary societies must meet certain qualifications.

Electing officers in the fall, the various clubs, under the direction of Student Council, schedule meetings, outings, and guest speakers. Meetings generally occur once a month under the supervision of a faculty advisor. Because of the crowded activity calendar, many of these meetings are held in the evening.

'66 saw the birth of a "pep club," initiated to direct the publicity of interscholastic sports. To become chartered as a recognized activity, a new club must adopt a constitution and secure the approval of the Student Council. Interested members must get a sponsor, establish membership qualifications and arrange meeting dates.

To raise money, clubs sponsor dances; hold bake sales; sell refreshments, candy, stationery, and calendars. Such profits are used to provide awards and contributions to such charity drives as the Heart Fund.

Through the year, Shaler's wide variety of activities develop diversified student interests.

Extra curricular activities are well supported by Shaler's student body. The clubs, varying in size and subject, promote vocational interests as well as hobbies and add zest to a Shaler day.

In addition to these, Student Council established two traditions, a Powder-Puff football game between junior and senior girls, and a Hall of Fame for the senior boy and girl contributing the most to Shaler during this past year. They also organized a Pep Club to promote school spirit. Many dances and assemblies throughout the year contributed to everyone's enjoyment.

directed visitors through the school and delivered messages when needed. Stage Crew members were largely responsible for installing the new public address system in the auditorium. Taking materials to classes was the job of the Supply Boys. Through their combined effort Shaler functioned easier.

Shaler has several clubs that recognize or encourage athletic ability among students. Bowling Club, sponsored by Mr. Baum, more than doubled in membership this year and concluded the season with a banquet at the Horn of Plenty. Sixteen teams bowled weekly at Mount Royal Lanes. Along with their other duties, the members of the Leaders' Club officiated at GAA games and organized the GAA banquet. Varsity Club members with Bill Brown as president and Duff Case as vice-president, provided awards for the most valuable players of the various interscholastic sports.

Centering their activities around service projects, members of the Future Nurses Club presented Christmas pixie favors to Passavant Hospital. The girls also viewed films about health careers and hosted speakers from the Hospital Council of Western Pennsylvania and from the armed forces.

This year's Future Teachers' Club, under the leadership of president Carol Sauter, was very active. In November members traveled to Clarion State College where they attended the Slippery Rock-Clarion football game and took a tour of the campus. The club presented an assembly on education in the fall.

A wide scope of extracurricular clubs is offered to encompass the interests of the majority of the student body. Among the active clubs participating this year were: Art Club, Chess Club, Drama Club, Folk Singing Club, and Photography Club.

By selling posters, having a bake sale, and sponsoring a dance, the interested Art Club members had a chance to attend an art show. A five member team sponsored by the Chess Club participated in a competition tournament with other schools. Sportsmanship among members was emphasized. Students interested in learning fundamental dramatic skills had a chance to exercise their talents in skits presented by the Drama Club at the bi-monthly meetings of the Folk Singing Club, members listened to folk songs they had bought and learned new folk music. Pictures of school functions used in the school publications were taken by the Photography Club members.

Membership in honor clubs is exclusive to those having a B average or better. The purpose of the clubs was to give recognition to those students achieving this requirement. This year the National Honor Society changed its organization from that of a club to that of strictly a society. Promotion of activities in Spanish Club and encouraging a better understanding of Spanish speaking people was the job of the Spanish National Honor Society. Members completed one and a half years of Spanish. Commercial Club members gained actual on the job experience by making field trips to various corporations in the area. Through the efforts of these three honor organizations, Shaler students reaped numerous benefits.

The Commercial Club is an honorary organization that chooses its members on the basis of academic standing. The club met once a month to plan activities. This year's activities included a bake sale, a Career Night, a field trip to Gimbels, and a winning float in the Homecoming Parade of 1965.

Spanish National Honor Society initiated thirty-six new members into the club this year. To be eligible for membership, a student had to have a "B" average in Spanish for two semesters.

The National Honor Society serves to recognize those students possessing scholarship, leadership, and character. This year's club elected new officers in September and initiated new members in an evening program in May.

Scoop Gets New Appearance Through Offset Lithography Printing

Offset lithography, a professional printing process, was adopted this year by the formerly mimeographed Scoop. This newer process made possible the inclusion of many vivid and distinct pictures of students and student life. Published monthly the six page Scoop "covered" sports events, club activities, college acceptances, and special features popular with the students. Regular monthly features included such columns as "Suzy Snooper," school gossip; "Sound-Off," student views; and "Exchange," news from other schools. Under the direction of Mrs. Skerlong, staff positions were changed monthly except for Pat Pfischner, who was chosen as editor for the school year. Changing positions provided varied experience.

Shaleresque Staff Introduces New Features

This year's SHALERESQUE staff began its plans for a "bigger and better" book early last summer. Choosing the colors and type of cover with the help of Mrs. Ruth Corda, the staff also planned the general layout. With the beginning of school, the all-girl staff decided to introduce new features into the book. A leather cover and colored tip-in division pages were two innovations. After selling advertisements, the girls worked steadily and eagerly in order to prepare articles, headlines, and captions. Each girl had certain responsibilities, and, in order to get her assignment done, she was called upon to use her ingenuity frequently. The book will be submitted for critical analysis to evaluate that ingenuity.

Three Shaler students, Diana Andromalos, Mary Elsner, and June Armstrong, represented Shaler at District Chorus held at Mt. Lebanon in March. Mary and June were then chosen to sing in the Regional Chorus at Seneca Valley in April. The girls had a wonderful time, and felt it was a very rewarding musical experience for them.

On April 1, 1966, a sellout crowd attended the choral department's Spring Concert. The highlight of the evening was the first appearance of Chapel Choir in their new red robes. In addition to Shaler's three choirs, an elementary choir consisting of 100 students from three elementary schools performed.

The theme of the concert was "America Sings," featuring selections from all types of American music. Sacred songs of the Easter season were also sung. The Senior High ensemble performed, and an elementary ensemble added a group of songs to the evening's entertainment.

To close out the concerts for the year, the Chapel Choir gave two more performances. On May 13 the Concert Band and the Chapel Choir gave a combined concert. Both the choir and the band gave tremendous performances in their new uniforms. The final performance of the 1966 Chapel Choir was at the baccalaureate ceremony when they sang two hymns.

Shaler Choirs provided music for everyone in a variety of assemblies and concerts. The three choirs gave assemblies at Thanksgiving and Christmas, and performed evening concerts at Christmas and in the spring. Field trips completed the choirs' year. The Shalerettes and Crescendos were reorganized and performed with the choirs and at outside shows. This year the Crescendos bought blue blazers, while the Shalerettes made blue velvet jumpers. The Chapel Choir got new sparkling red robes, for the spring concert and passed their blue robes down to the sophomore choir. Treble Choir made empire waist dresses from white brocade. The vocal groups in their new outfits brought enjoyment to all Shaler students.

Resplendant in their brand new uniforms, designed by two former Shaler band directors, Mr. William H. Myers and Mr. James P. Tucci, with the assistance of the present director, Mr. John Mroz, the Shaler High Varsity Marching Band presented many fine half-time shows throughout this year's football season. Several of John Philip Sousa's fine marches, including "Semper Fidelis" and "Stars and Stripes Forever" were featured at one lively show.

Early in marching season, the band participated in a band festival hosted by North Hills High School. Other groups present were the high school bands of Avonworth, Carnegie, and Bellevue, and the Sharpsburg Cadets.

Of the three concerts presented throughout the concert season, the band posthumously dedicated their Spring Concert to a 1965 Shaler graduate, David Roth, who, through his musical brilliance, left a lasting impression on the Shaler High Band.

This year our majorette captain was Donna Funk. Usually in the past, the squad has had a sponsor, but Mr. Mroz resolved not to have one and try something new. The majorettes created all their routines a week before the game. Although it was hard work, everyone loved football season. They performed at pep rallies during the fall and at a special rally for the North Hills basketball game. In the spring the majorettes marched in the Little League and Memorial Day parade. This year provided a rewarding experience for all the girls on the squad.

When Conrad Birdie, teenage singing idol, was drafted, his manager, Al Peterson, planned a spectacular television farewell. Scheduled to appear on the Ed Sullivan Show, Conrad was to sing the new song "One Last Kiss" and to bestow that "kiss" on the upturned face of an enraptured fan. Kim MacAfee, from Sweetapple, Ohio, was the lucky girl.

Conrad's arrival in Sweetapple was accompanied by several problems involving Al's domineering mama, Al's exasperated secretary, Rosie, and Kim's jealous boy friend, Hugo, among others. Finally, on the day of Conrad's departure, all problems having been solved, the whole town turned out to wave "Bye Bye Birdie."

Kim assures Hugo she has only "One Boy."

Robert Junker and Diana Andromalos Head

A wave of excitement swept the school when the announcement came that "Bye Bye Birdie" was to be the junior class play. Over two hundred would-be actors and actresses scurried to the auditorium for try-outs. Then came that eventful Monday morning — the selected cast of characters was posted. What a crowd flocked about the bulletin board that morning! What a good cast!

Rehearsals followed: morning, noon, and night. Scenery was constructed; costumes were sewn. Robin Rea could barely be seen beneath armfuls of bright costumes! And, oh! those days of painting scenery! Everyone seemed to be in on it.

Tickets were sold. Through Mr. Fabian's sales promotion the Junior Class more than "packed the house" for both performances.

Dress rehearsal came. The show was ready to go on. During a dance routine, however, Diana Andromalos fell and sprained her ankle! Still "the show must go on!" With much determination, the encouragement of the entire cast, and the unfailing guidance of Miss Pringle, Diana led the cast beautifully. "Bye Bye Birdie," a great success, will always be a highlight of our junior year.

Johnny appears oblivious to the commotion Laurella is causing.

When James Waverly, an aging movie idol, condescended to attend Carol and Ben's graduation from college, the Coleman family became involved in a mad scramble of circumstances. While Mrs. "Herman" Coleman, her stage-struck daughter, Carol, and her song-writing son, Ben, hosted Mr. Waverly, a various assortment of "show biz" people arrived at the Coleman's small home in hot pursuit of James. Buzzie MacKnight, James' agent; Laurella Illchester, a famous gossip columnist; and Freddie, the photographer, arrived in town to find that Charwanka, a zany Russian actress who had been chasing James all over the country, had somehow found out that he was visiting the Coleman's and had followed him there. Laurella was delighted and tried to involve everyone in a scandalous story. Finally, in order to keep the lid on the affair, "Herman" resorted to gun play. Carol retrieved her sailor, Johnny from her "friend" Elvira, and Ben decided to go to New York and try the "show biz" game.

Two score and seven years ago when we started this year out I hardly knew you but through the year I have come to know you.
I hope I get to go in on the next retreat.
I also want to be the one we get to pick on think you won't be the one we get to pick on Next year. I hope you have a very nice summer and a happy love life.

Love
L. F.

Dear Susan I
 Don't forget our great quintet date. Roar-r-r (Eddy Bear) Biology class, hand camp and band (Sissy) our separate dressing room, etc. Hope to see you a lot in the future!
 Love, Susan II

Well Sus, another year is over and
 I'm really glad.
 Never forget Geom.
 class and Mr.
 Ford. And if you did as poor as I did you'll want to forget the grades!
 Be good, stay
 sweet and take care. R.M.A.

Love ya
 Jan

Sus
 So a really great pal of mine
 from Biology. Always remembers the fun we had there. The stinky room, the even worse first and frogs. All the luck in the world and all the happiness too!

Love ya!
 Cheryl

Well, I'm really glad to hear you are doing well and hope you'll be a great sweet girl with a really funny sense of humor. Remember the future!
 Love
 R.M.A.

And Now It All Becomes Memories . . .

So closes the pages of our lives as Shaler High School students. As we face the future, may we not forget the past. Each of us has gained something from the experiences of his past years at Shaler, something which has helped to shape him into a better person and an adult of tomorrow. Many years from now when your memories of Shaler grow dim, relive again through the 1966 Shaleresque your senior year, one of the best years of your life.

Susie,

Have a great time this summer! Please don't even try to remember French, Eng, or Mr. Longwell. Luck always!

Kyle
